Weather.

Another typhoon coming. The maximum temperature yesterday was 90.4 and the minimum 72.5, the figures for the corresponding day last year being 88.7 and 65.6.

IRISH NOT FOOLED THIS TIME; WON'T FLINCH NOW

Cannot And Will Not Accept Terms Says De Valera

MAY USE FORCE

Says The Irish People Hate British To Marrow Of Bones

(Reuter's Service)

Dublia, Aug. 17.—The Mansion House was again packed in anticipation of Mr. de Valera's promise to outline the course of the peace negotiations.

Mr. de Valera at the outset created a sensation among his hearers by declaring that the reports of the British and foreign press indicated doubt in the minds of the world as regards the Irish attitude to the British terms. "There ought to be no doubt. We cannot and won't accept the terms. The Irish people are not going to be fooled this time." (Cheers).

He added that the obvious thing to do was to end the rule which the Irish people hated to the marrow of their bones. If they had to resort to force they would. The Irish people did not flinch before, and they would not flinch now. Mr. de Valera sat down amid a scene of intense excitement.

More U.S. Mail Arriving Today On Empire State

Next Outbound Mail Will Be Despatched Tomorrow On Empress Of Russia

Following the sailing for Hongkong yesterday of the T.K.K. liner Siberia Maru, which brought mail from America, another mail is due to arrive today on the Empire State of the Pacific Mail. According to advices received the vessel will dock at the China Merchants' lower wharf at 4 o'clock this afternoon. It will be despatched for Hongkong by way of Manila at 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

The next mail from Shanghai to America will be despatched on the steamer Empress of Russia of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services tomorrow. The Empress of Russia sailed from Hongkong at noon Thursday and is due off Woosung at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. The tender with arriving passengers is expected at the Customs Jetty about 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The tender with outbound passengers for the Empress of Russia is due to leave the jetty at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Storm Foreseen By Weather Observers

A possibility exists that a storm equal to or greater than the memorable gale that swept destructively over Shanghai in 1915 is imminent, and a further possibility is that floods will follow in the wake of the storm.

The weather watchers observed yesterday that the typhoon is advancing on the Yellow Sea and they point out that continuing on its present course it is sweeping directly toward the coast and threatens it at a point between the mouth of the Yangtsze and the Bay of Hangchow. This may mean a storm of proportions for Shanghai and as the period coincides with the high tides of the full moon, floods also may result.

Red Cross Headed By Hoover To Aid Starving

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Aug. 17.—The International Red Cross Council, which is considering measures for Russian relief, has resolved that Mr. Hoover and Mr. Nansen, or their representatives, be appointed high commissioners under a central relief commission to reach a preliminary agreement with the Russian authorities concerning the administration and proper distribution of relief. An urgent appeal will be issued to the world for prompt, generous assistance and co-operation with governmental action.

Discovers New Continent In Antarctic Rich In Oils

Dr. Cope, the head of the British Antarctic Expedition, who has, according to a dispatch received at Vancouver, B. C., discovered a new continent in the Antarctic. It is described as rich in minerals, oils, furs and strange birds of immense size, as well as seals, sea leopards and gorgeous emperor penguins inhabit this land beyond Terra del Fuego. The area of this new continent, lying at the "bottom of the earth," has not yet been computed.

GERMANS WORK ON POLES FOR A COMPROMISE

Reconciliation Near Between Contenders Who May Fix It Their Own Way

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, August 17.—Advices from Kattowitz state that prospects of reconciliation between the contending parties in Upper Silesia are indicated as the result of a conference between leading German industrialists and representatives of the Polish parties, at which it is believed that an agreement was reached to cooperate in the interests of Silesia.

Tells Standpoint Of French As To Silesia

Paris, August 18.—Further light is thrown on the causes of last week's crisis in the Supreme Council in a statement made by M. Briand to a number of pressmen. He said that the British and French were only absolutely agreed on two points, namely, that the Peace Treaty provided for the partition of Upper Silesia, and that the inhabitants' wishes must be consulted therein. They differed in the interpretation of Article 88 (which deals with the plebiscite area).

M. Briand then elaborated the French standpoint as regards the division, and as to what the industrial region comprehended. He showed how the disagreement arose regarding the question of the divisibility of the industrial region, and said that the League of Nations' advice would enable the Supreme Council to take a final decision. He concluded with a declaration as to the necessity for the Entente to maintain a firm union.

French Press Don't Like Premier's Talk

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, August 17.—The Echo de Paris, commenting on Mr. Lloyd George's speech in the House of Commons on Tuesday, expresses regret that he again affirmed the German character of the population of Upper Silesia, relying this time on the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The Figaro and the Avenir also find cause for criticism, the former says: "We are just as Pacifist as the British Premier, and we have given proof enough that this is so, but the best means of averting war is not to revive the courage of the conquered by giving way to them, so that they will think we stand in dread of them."

The Eclair points out that Mr. Lloyd George, speaking immediately

NEWCOMER PLUNGES TO DEATH FROM TOP OF THE KALEE HOTEL

Mr. Alexander Lang, 38 years old, who came to Shanghai just a week ago to take over the management of the Shanghai branch of Robert Grant and Company of Glasgow plunged to his death eighty feet from the top story of the Kalee Hotel into Kiukiang Road at 2 o'clock this morning.

Life was extinct when he reached the Shanghai General Hospital.

Mr. C. T. Clack, New York Manager of Robert Grant and Company, who has been remaining in Shanghai pending the arrival of a new manager of the branch office was utterly at a loss to ascribe any reason for suicide, and no notes or messages were found in Room No. 97, on the fourth floor of the hotel which Mr. Lang occupied.

Mr. Lang was a man below medium height and the theory that he may have fallen from the window is dissipated by reason of the fact that a space on the first floor of the hotel on Kiukiang Road is covered by the roof of an adjoining structure upon which a falling body from an upper storey must have struck, had it been merely a fall.

The point on the roadway where the body struck is well beyond the curb line. The noise of the man's fall was heard by nearby residents who investigated and notified the police of what had happened.

Mr. Lang arrived here on August 11 on the steamer Ascanius and for the past several days has been occupying a room at the Kalee hotel with Mr. A. C. Macpherson, a fellow voyager, who left yesterday for Japan.

The victim of the tragedy was a native of Coatbridge, Scotland, and according to information received here concerning him, he leaves a widow and seven children, who were to have followed him to Shanghai.

Upon his request his quarters in the hotel yesterday were changed from Room 88, an inner room, to the one which overlooks the roadway.

Attendants at the hotel did not note the time of Mr. Lang's arrival last night and an examination of his room showed that he had not used the bed.

Fleming In Cross Suit Asks Tls. 650,000 From Philippine National Bank

Attorney Makes A General Denial Of Charges Against Him And Bares Details Of Crisis Through Which Bank Lately Passed

Mr. William S. Fleming placed on record in the United States Court for China yesterday his answer to the Tls. 600,000 damage suit that was filed against him the preceding day by the Philippine National Bank. In this answer Mr. Fleming denies all of the charges made against him and his firm in the suit and presents a counter-claim in the sum of Tls. 650,000 for damages he alleges he has sustained through action of the bank.

The separate claims are made against Mr. Flemng in the bank's suit, one of Tls. 500,000, based upon the allegation that while acting as its attorney Mr. Fleming disclosed business secrets to other banks, and the second of Tls. 100,000, based upon the allegation that the damages were sustained through statements Mr. Fleming made in a letter he wrote to Messrs. F. J. Schuhl and H. D. Rodger.

In his answer to the suit Mr. Fleming goes in much detail into the affairs of the Shanghai branch of the Philippine National Bank in the period just prior to February 1 last when he was acting as its attorney and when he says the institution was facing bankruptcy by reason of exchange obligations then falling due.

DENIES CHARGE

Mr. Fleming denies that the information he had obtained as attorney for the bank concerning these various exchange transactions was secret or confidential in the sense that it should or could have been withheld from other banks that were parties to the various exchange contracts. He asserts that the disclosures that were made to other banks were made by him under authorisation and with full knowledge of the head office of the bank at Manila.

He asserts that as a result of the services performed by himself and Alexander McLure, an auditor of the plaintiff, the crisis in the affairs of the bank was passed when the various foreign exchange banks involved consented to a postponement of the date of performance of exchange contracts. Following this he sets forth that he received congratulatory messages from the head office of the bank in Manila.

Concerning the bank's claim of damages in the sum of Tls 100,000 Mr. Fleming admits that he wrote in the manner quoted in a letter addressed to Messrs. F. J. Schuhl and H. D. Rodgers, but he contends that this was a privileged communication addressed to a committee of the American Far Eastern Bar Association.

As basis for his claim of damages in the sum of Tls. 650,000 Mr. Fleming asserts that on two occasions the plaintiff appeared before Messrs. Schuhl and Rodger, acting as a committee of the bar association, and maliciously and unlawfully made a series of charges against him which he enumerates and describes.

TEXT OF ANSWER

The complete text of Mr. Fleming's answer is given as follows:

Philippine National Bank
Plaintiff,

vs.

Wm. S. Fleming,
Defendant.

ANSWER AND COUNTERCLAIM

Now comes the defendant herein, and answering the petition of the plaintiff:

1. Admits allegations contained in paragraphs 1, 2 and 3 of said petition.

2. Admits that as attorney for the plaintiff defendant obtained information regarding the business records, affairs and financial condition of the Shanghai branch of the plaintiff, consisting among other things of full, complete and detailed statements with respect to certain exchange contracts then and there existing between the plaintiff, and certain other banks doing business in the City of Shanghai, China, the names of said banks being set forth in the petition of the plaintiff herein; defendant further admits that he was conversant with the affairs of the said Shanghai branch of the plaintiff relating to and connected with said exchange contracts; defendant denies that the information contained in said complete and detailed statements, or with the affairs of the Shanghai branch of the Philippine National Bank relating to and connected with said exchange contracts was secret or confidential, in the sense that information concerning the same should or could have been withheld from the other banks, the parties to said exchange contracts, the names of which said banks are set forth in plaintiff's petition.

3. Defendant denies that without the authorisation or consent of the plaintiff, or without attempting to secure said authorisation or consent, he did wrongfully and unlawfully reveal and disclose to Robert Buchan, manager of the Shanghai branch of the Asia Banking Corporation secret and confidential information obtained by the defendant from the plaintiff.

4. Defendant denies the allegations contained in paragraph four of said petition, that without the authorisation or consent of the plaintiff, and without attempting to secure such authorisation or consent, he wrongfully and unlawfully disclosed to a meeting of the representatives of the banks mentioned in paragraph 3 of said

Polish Youngsters Turn Out As Boy Scouts On War Footing

Polish children, of Kattowitz, armed with rifles, are now "comrades" and bunkies of the insurgents at that town in Upper Silesia. It has not been long since Polish lads have been allowed to play soldier, when their country was divided between Germany, Austria and Russia. But during the Bolshevik drive to Warsaw in the spring of 1920 they turned out with scythes and real rifles to help turn the Red tide. They now act as scouts and do creditable work.

WOMEN WANT PLACE IN PEACE CONFERENCE

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, August 17.—The Committee of the National League of Women Voters called at the White House and asked President Harding to appoint a woman member to the American delegation to the Disarmament Conference. Upon departing, they quoted President Harding as having said to them that he was most anxious to utilise the influence and intuitions of women at the Conference, and that such an arrangement was being worked out satisfactorily.

JAPAN TO USE MANCHURIA AS SIBERIA LEVER

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, August 13.—Interviewed by press representatives here, Marquis Okuma (former Premier) made the following remarks regarding the Pacific Conference:

"It is not yet definitely known what subjects are going to be taken up for discussion. The Japanese people, however, will only have to attach to the convention all confidence and resolution required for the advocacy of justice and humanity and for the protection of their proper rights and interests.

"For instance, should any Power participating in the session attempt to interfere in the decisions and agreements already legitimately reached at the Versailles Conference, in regard to Yap and Shantung, the Japanese should oppose these for the sake of the Empire's honor, as well as the dignity of the League of Nations.

"Again, the fact must be put on record that Siberia is so vitally connected with South Manchuria, where Japan has so far invested more than 440,000,000 yen, that it is only natural that the special position of the Japanese people in the Province should be duly recognised. The Shantung question is, in reality, the Tsingtao question. Chinese diplomats are so clever and crafty that they refer to the Tsingtao question as if it were a problem involving the whole Province of Shantung.

"The Japanese stand in a seriously disadvantageous position as regards propaganda. The Japanese are not only bad speakers of foreign languages, but peculiarly reserved. They ought to learn to speak more boldly and straightforwardly when dealing with foreign friends. The Japanese should always be ready to insist in the maintenance of their own legitimately acquired rights and interests, which they are bound to protect at all cost."

Shifty Snake Suicides In Wake Of Wriggling Bike

By Bruce Hopper

MARK Twain described the "street called Straight" in Damascus, noted by St. Paul, as "something straighter than a corkscrew, but not so straight as a rainbow."

Without being so ribald, and innocent of such deliberate hyperbole, one might say the average Chinese on a bicycle is steadier than an aeroplane turtle-flopping earthward with all the controls shot away, but not so steady as a rudderless ship whipping through the tail of a typhoon.

There is tragic fable of an athletic snake who conceived the ambition of following the path of a Chinese bikeman. The muchly traveled serpent had spiralled some convoluting trails in his time, and let it be known that there was no labyrinth he could not unwriggle. But when he began to undulate down the said bicycle track his head crossed his tail so many times he became dizzy, sprained a few vertebrae, and eventually came to a twist he had never seen before. The story has it he was so disgusted he committed suicide in the nearest lawn mower.

To proceed: The Chinese is about as shifty on a bike as a Japanese cavalry officer on a horse that likes to trot. What he seems to lack is a sense of balance, located usually in the bump behind the ear, a sense of direction, and an understanding of the geometry of the straight line.

CHOP-STICKS VS BICYCLE

Mine host, the Chinese, makes merry over the all-thumb antics of the foreigner when the latter is given a bowl of rice and a pair of chop-sticks at a sing-song party. If the foreigner had as many tentacles as the octopus he never could acquire the graceful ease and deadly certainty of the Chinese in prying the last few grains of rice from the bottom of the bowl. Threatened with starvation he takes the desperate measure of scooping the rice with the porcelain spoon, and tries to look casual when caught at the sly trick.

But the laugh turns when the Chinese mounts the iron horse of the western world, the bike. He wobbles, he gyrates, he holds up the traffic, he makes the Sikh policeman swear in Hindustani and Sanskrit, and then he collides with a ricsha and comes in for some straight talk from the coolie.

The Chinese anatomy does not seem to be adaptable to the warp of the bike. Walking leisurely, and with dignity, the Chinese does possess a certain control of his limbs. Put him in the saddle of the bicycle, slunching over the handle bars, his legs too short to reach the down stroke of the pedals, and his poise vanishes after the foreigner's chop-sticks.

OH, BELLS, BELLS, BELLS!

It is rumored in Shanghai financial circles that many forward insurance companies refuse the risk of any Chinese suspected of being a bicycle addict. Frequent collisions, hesitation, and meandering line of flight make the occupation dangerous, but the greatest risk is possible murder at the hands of the crowd which objects to the constant ringing of the many sets of bells on the handle bars.

How he does love his bells, the Chinese bikeman! He tinkles when there is none to hear, much less to clear the way. Coming down Nanking Road he starts the nerve-racking twankling about Thibet Road, to warn policemen on The Bund to clear the traffic for the Juggernaut. What is especially pleasing to the nerves is to ride in a ricsha just behind a bikeman who clinkles even when the stream is held up at a corner. The ricsha passenger cannot tell whether these signals are warnings or distress, but he is tempted to snatch the bike, rider and all, and hang the tinkling mass on the lip of some high pagoda to tintinnabulate, and maybe slightly rusticate, in the wind.

CAPPY SAILS THE BIKE

Cappy Ahab, the old whale hunter who is spending his declining days in the Bund garden watching the new-fangled ships, when asked if he could ride a bicycle as well as the Chinese fairly snorted with deep sea indignation.

"What, I board a bounding gondola for a shore cruise! Young feller, you're too durned funny!

"Time was when I might have coxed a Flying Dutchman through a blow in the Roaring Forties, but I've too much salt in my bones to risk one of those rum shore craft.

"They are poor navigators ashore, those Chinese. I've seen them on Avenue Edouard VII, and I'll tell you how they sail," and here Cappy took a bite of his favorite hemp. "You ought to be three or four sheets to the wind before shoving off, for you have to board from starboard instead of port. You sit pretty well aft, grab the helm with both hands, two fingers on the fog horn signals, and hoist your overall as a mainsail to get under way.

"After going a few feet you have to take a reef in the sheets, and slam the helm hard aport, to prevent running down the power craft in the fairway. Then you just luff a bit, hugging the shore. You back and fill, and fall on your keel to trim dish. If you can bring her head around again, and the breeze hits you on the quarter, you bear off on a starboard tack until abreast of the dock where you started. About that time there's a shivering up in the yards, but you just scud along, trying to lie closer to the wind until you pile up around the lamp post.

"With craft of that kind you have to keep the fog signals sounding all the time, because you never know your course. Watch out for power boats and tramp steamers, but maskee the dingies and yawls. And take it from an old sailor, who has rocked through many a breaker, a Catamaran outrigger would not be bad tackle to hitch on to those rum Chinese shore craft."

Having thus delivered himself Cappy fell to eating more hemp, and the Paul Pry of the press went back to the Shanghai frolic of dodging bicycles.

GUNBOATS MAY DEAL HUNANESE DEATHBLOW

Wu Pei-fu Concentrates Warships Against The Insurgents

LEAVE PAICHOW

Hunan Representatives Go To Changsha After Negotiations End

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Hankow, August 18 (12 noon).—General Wu Pei-fu, High Inspector-General of Hupeh and Hunan, is concentrating the naval forces up-river for an attack on Changsha. Five gunboats have been despatched.

The two representatives of General Chao Heng-ti, the commander-in-chief of the allied forces, left Hankow for Changsha on Tuesday, saying that a naval attack meant a deathblow to Hunan despite its land forces.

Paichow has been evacuated by Hunanese troops.

Steamers Under Fire When Near Fight Zone

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Ichang, August 18.—The Indo-China steamer Kiangwo was fired on above Kienli when coming up-river. The N.K.K. vessel Tahung was also heavily fired on, and returned to Hankow.

A Chungking steamer reports that a large fleet of native craft, carrying Szechuen soldiers, is proceeding down the river.

The garrison of Patung retired without orders, and is now retreating hither. It is reported that one regiment of Szechuen troops occupied Patung last night.

Forces Now Drawn Up In 4 Mile Battle Line

(Staff Wire To The China Press)

Hankow, August 17 (7 p.m.)—While General Chao Heng-ti, the Hunan commander-in-chief, has agreed to cease fighting with the government troops, his subordinates insist that the combat be resumed to hasten the establishment of self-government in Hunan and Hupeh.

General Wu Pei-fu, on the other hand, is now determined to smash the insurgents before opening a peace parley with them. The aim of his drive is Yochow and he intends to rid Hupeh of all insurgents before any negotiations are made.

Five thousand soldiers of General Wu's model army arrived at Hankow from Loyang today. Thirteen thousand more are expected to arrive here within a few days.

General Hsiao Yao-nan, the new Tuchun, paid his first official call on the Hankow Consuls today. In the course of his conversation, he incidentally remarked that the Hunan movement was instigated by the Canton administration and expressed the belief that the present fighting is necessary.

General Wu Pei-fu has returned from his trip of inspection along the front, which is now drawn out to about four miles, divided into three sectors. The first in the vicinity of Tingsihchao manned by troops of the 25th division which General Hsiao Yao-nan brought down from Chihli. The second sector is in the hands of the two brigades of Generals Chin Yung-ao, brother of the Premier and Chao Chi, brother of the Honan Tuchun. This is in Sienninghsien. The third sector, consisting of the 24th division and the remnants of the division formerly under Sun Chuan-fang, aide of Wang Chan-yuan, has their post at Hoshunchao.

The Hunan-Hupeh allied forces are of about the same strength: two divisions and one brigade, under the command of Sung Ao-keng. The right sector is in Tungshan under General Yi Kai-hsin; the left sector in Puchi under Hsia To-yin and the central sector, consisting of Sung's own crack army, is located in Chungyang.

The mass meeting called Monday by Hankow merchants and students to demand the proclamation of Hankow and Wuchang as neutral zone was prohibited by order of General Wu, who maintained that in time of war, no such meeting should be called.

The merchants in the Wuhan Cities are planning to organise a volunteer corps among themselves. They have announced that they would refuse to lend any money to either of the military factions. A large quantity of ammunition is being sent from Peking.

DOCUMENTS' BOX MAY BREAK PACT WITH MR. YOURIN

Peking, August 17.—According to unofficial Chinese reports, an incident has arisen between the Chinese Government and the Chita Mission in Peking which has led to a protest by the latter.

It appears that a Russian who had no proper passport left Mukden for Peking with two boxes, which the Chinese secret service had reason to believe contained despatches. The secret service officials held up the boxes and reported the circumstances to the Russian Affairs Bureau in Peking.

Meanwhile M. Agarieff, the Chita representative, on learning the facts, protested to the Waichiaopu, but in the interim the secret service officials, acting on instructions from the Russian Affairs Bureau, opened the boxes, the examination of which is said to have fully justified their action.

Whilst no details are reported regarding the contents of the boxes, it is freely stated that the affair will materially affect the status of M. Yourin, and possibly prevent further negotiations between him and the Chinese.

In the first instance the matter was reported to General Chang Tso-lin, who declined to take any responsibility.

ALAS! JAPAN IS OUT O'LUCK IN SIBERIA

Tokio, August 12.—Captain Kurashige, who recently arrived at Harbin, en route to Vladivostok, made the following statement regarding the latest conditions at Chita:

"The change of attitude of the Chita authorities towards the Japanese has been so positively manifested that they did not transmit telegraphic messages entrusted by the Japanese, while they attached secret patrols to the Japanese troops. They went even to the length of effecting domiciliary searches of Russians suspected of having communicated in any way with the Japanese, and those imprisoned, in consequence of such searches, numbered over 2,400 at one time.

"The Japanese authorities filed a strong protest with the Chita authorities against their refusal to admit Major Miyake into their town, but they turned a deaf ear to it. In these circumstances, the Japanese special commission, hitherto attached to Chita, was obliged on July 16 to withdraw.

"The Chita Cabinet has recently been reformed into a Coalition Ministry, including two Socialists. The Ministry, however, is divided into two groups, one favoring the policy of feathering its own nest, while the other advocates activity for the sake of the people. A split is prevented only by the desire to unify the administration and form an independent nation.

"The negotiations that may be started between the Japanese and the Chita authorities for the opening of commercial intercourse will be attended with no small difficulty."

Japanese To Talk To Chita Officials

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, August 18.—The chief of the Japanese diplomatic mission (Mr. Matsushima), with General Takayanagi, has sailed in the Japanese transport Banzai Maru. It is believed that their destination is Dairen, and that they will enter into negotiations there with representatives of the Chita Government.

Cut Ten Hours Off Trip To Nagasaki

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, August 13.—In order to improve the shipping service between Nagasaki and Shanghai, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha has decided to construct two new vessels in England. One will be named Nagasaki Maru and the other Shanghai Maru. Both, according to the shipping company, will be most completely equipped.

The new vessels are expected to cover the distance about ten hours quicker than at present. The construction of the vessels will be complete towards the end of next June.

JUST PAY VISIT TO RUSSIA TO HAVE SOFT SNAP

BY WILLIAM Z. FOSTER

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow (by mail), July 20.—What has happened in Russia amounts in substance to this: The organised workers and peasants have overthrown the exploiting capitalists and landlords and have seized their industries and land. They are now operating them for their own benefit, paying no interest, rent or profit to anybody. They are keeping all the fruits of their labor, and to defend this communistic system of production and distribution they have set up a workers' state, backed by a workers' army. Both these they control to the last detail.

GETTING INTO RUSSIA

Perhaps an easy approach to the new Russian Communist society will be to start at the border of the country as a visitor, and relate what happens to one. Russia is now in the throes of revolution, and to enter the country is very difficult, so earnest and necessary are the precautions against spies and counter-revolutionaries.

The applicant for admission must wait at the principal town of entry until his case has been laid before the government office in Moscow. Then, if his mission has been deemed valid and important, he is allowed to come in. This accomplished, he at once becomes a guest of the Russian Socialistic Federated Soviet Republic.

So long as he remains in Russia he is fed, clothed, housed, entertained, instructed, and generally extended hospitality without the cost of a penny to him. It makes no difference who the man is or what his errand; whether he be a diplomat, a correspondent, a capitalist in search of concessions, a rebel worker come to study the new society, or whatnot: in every case the procedure is the same. He is the guest of the Russian Government.

To workers living in capitalist countries this may seem a strange method, but it flows naturally from the prevailing Communist society. In Soviet Russia there are only two practical ways of procuring the necessities of life, by work or by gift, and of course the government does not expect temporary sojourners in the country to become part of the working force.

diately after the Supreme Council meetings, used the same friendly language in speaking of France as he did shortly beforehand.

The Temps refrains from any general comment. The Journal des Debats, while expressing pleasure at the fine phrases of Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Asquith, says it would prefer to see some practical results. Their speeches, it adds, call for the remark that it is wrong to represent France as a prey to excessive nervousness, the fact being that she only wishes to take every precaution against a repetition of the disaster of 1914.

Five Nations Invite Press Congress To Meet In Their Capital For Next Session

(Special Correspondence)

Honolulu, Hawaii, August 1.—The Press Congress of the World may hold its next sessions in Spain two years hence during the great World Exposition at Seville, or three years hence in England, although it is expected that these are not the only countries that will send delegates to Hawaii in October with invitations.

The King of Spain will extend a special invitation to the delegates at Honolulu to be his guests at Seville in 1923, while London has suggested three-year recesses between sessions and desires that the next Congress be held in that city in 1924. Switzerland desires that the next Congress be held at Geneva, Holland is urging Amsterdam and Brazil has offered Rio de Janeiro. Should this latter invitation be accepted it would give Dr. Walter Williams, president of the congress the opportunity he desires to organise a Pan-American Press Congress that would meet annually, or at least once every two years, in some Latin-America city.

President Warren G. Harding, himself a newspaper man, may send a member of his cabinet to Honolulu in October to deliver the opening address at the sessions.

The state department has already sent to all countries with which the United States maintains diplomatic relations an official invitation to be represented at the Press Congress sessions. Doctor Williams, in a telegram to Governor Farrington, says that according to the present outlook the congress will be attended by between 400 and 500 representative journalists, and that many of them will bring their wives or other members of their families.

The Press Congress seeks to extend acquaintance. Hawaii will Assemble the writers of Pan-Pacific countries to meet the congress representatives, and that acquaintance will at once be extended. There will be a wide range of discussion about journalism, the promotion of news communication, dissemination of helpful ideas in journalism, the elevation of journalistic standards, and generally there will be an enlargement of the profession of journalism.

Lord Northcliffe, owner of the London Times and other leading English dailies, who recently left London on a tour of the Pacific, may embark from San Francisco on his Southern journey in time to be present at the Press Congress sessions.

BRITISH MAY USE INDEMNITY FOR EDUCATION

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 17.—In the House of Commons today a question was asked as to whether, in view of the example of France, Japan and the United States, Great Britain would divert the future Boxer indemnity to payments to the Chinese for education.

Mr. Harmsworth (Under-Secretary to the Foreign Office) said the question was being most carefully considered. He emphasised the difficulty, in view of the urgency of national economy, but the Government proposed to appoint a committee to deal with the subject soon.

MEAT AND GARB PRICES RISING SAY LABORERS

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 17.—The Labor Gazette shows that the cost of living is on the up-grade. Last month the average level was 122 percent above pre-war compared with 119 percent above pre-war in June last. The increase is chiefly due to dearer farm produce in consequence of the drought and increased rents. The price of meat and clothing continues to decrease.

It is officially announced that the wages of over three and a-half million workers were reduced in July. Only about 5,000 workers received increases. The result is a net reduction of weekly full-time wages of a little over £1,000,000.

FIRE DESTROYS TRAMS

Tokio, August 18.—A fire broke out at four o'clock this morning at the Tokio Electric Bureau, and destroyed the machine and paint-shop, and eighty electric cars. Three firemen were slightly injured.

U.S. WANTS FREE HAND IN WORK ON RUSSIA'S FAMINE

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, August 17.—The Cabinet, with President Harding present, discussed the difficulties arising from the insistence of the Soviet authorities that they participate in the control of the distribution of the relief in the famine areas.

The attitude of the Cabinet is that, though the United States must insist on freedom of American control and distribution of relief, it does not look with disfavor on the participation of European powers in any general investigation of the relief.

Fleming In Cross Suit Asks Big Sum From Bank

petition, secret and confidential information secured by the defendant from the plaintiff, as alleged in paragraph 5 of said petition.

5. Defendant denies the allegations contained in paragraph 6 of said petition.

6. Further answering the first cause of action set forth in said petition, the defendant alleges that between the 21st day of January, 1921, and the 12th day of February, 1921, he acted for and was employed by the plaintiff as one of its attorneys and legal advisers, in connection with the financial difficulties and obligations of the plaintiff to seventeen other foreign banks at Shanghai, China, and to certain Chinese firms and citizens; that said obligations of the plaintiff were upon exchange contracts executed by the said plaintiff and held by said foreign banks and said Chinese firms and citizens; that the Shanghai branch of the plaintiff, on the 21st day of January, 1921, and up to the time of the meeting of the creditor banks on the 30th day of January, 1921, and thereafter, was in a critical condition, facing bankruptcy and probable losses of from seven to ten million taels; that it was necessary for the plaintiff either to arrange with some other bank or banks, or other financial interests to take over its exchange obligations falling due on the 1st day of February, 1921, or to arrange with all of its creditors, including the seventeen foreign exchange banks mentioned in plaintiff's petition, for a postponement of the date for performance of the obligations of the said plaintiff, under the exchange contracts issued by said plaintiff and falling due on the 1st day of February, 1921, and thereafter; that on the 22nd day of January, 1921, and at various times through telegrams from the head office of the said plaintiff at Manila, dated the 22nd day of January, 1921, and at various days thereafter, the said plaintiff bank vested the defendant with full and complete authority to do the things necessary properly to protect the interests of the said defendant, to call a meeting of the creditors of the plaintiff bank at Shanghai, and to assure the creditors that their interests would receive as prompt attention as could be expected under the circumstances, with a view to a quick adjustment.

7.—Defendant alleges that he faithfully and to the best of his ability acted as the attorney and legal adviser for the said plaintiff in the matters aforesaid; that with the authority vested in him by the head office of the said plaintiff at Manila, he first tried to secure one of the banks holding exchange contracts with it in Shanghai, viz: the Asia Banking Corporation, to undertake the obligations of the plaintiff falling due on the 1st day of February, 1921; that the reason why the Asia Banking Corporation was approached on this behalf was because of a suggestion made by the manager of the plaintiff at Shanghai, who stated that he had already approached the Asia Banking Corporation for said purpose through an exchange broker, named Joseph Gubbay, but that the negotiations had not been concluded.

Defendant further says that in order to enlist the support of the Asia Banking Corporation with reference to the exchange obligations of the plaintiff falling due on February 1, 1921, it was necessary to inform the Asia Banking Corporation of the approximate amount of the exchange obligations of the plaintiff, not only on the 1st day of February, 1921, but during the succeeding months, and that defendant, as an honorable practitioner of law, could not have approached the Asia Banking Corporation with such a proposal and could not have requested their support without informing the Asia Banking Corporation of the approximate amount of the exchange obligations of the said plaintiff, falling due on the 1st day of February, 1921, and during succeeding months.

Defendant further alleges that the said Asia Banking Corporation, through its manager, Robert Buchan, entertained such proposal and agreed to wire to Manila to the branch of the said Asia Banking Corporation, stating the conditions under which the said Asia Banking Corporation would be willing to consider a proposal to take over said exchange obligations of the plaintiff falling due on the 1st day of February, 1921; that in approaching the said Robert Buchan, manager of the Asia Banking Corporation, at Shanghai, as aforesaid, and disclosing the information necessary to enlist the support of the Asia Banking Corporation as aforesaid, the defendant acted in good faith for the sole purpose of protecting and conserving the interests of the plaintiff and to prevent a probable failure and collapse of the plaintiff's branch Bank at Shanghai, China, on the 1st day of February, 1921, and that defendant further acted pursuant to the discretion and authority in him vested by the head office of the said plaintiff at Manila.

8.—Defendant further says that with the knowledge, consent and under the instructions of the head office of the said plaintiff at Manila he appeared before a meeting of the seventeen foreign exchange banks, whose names are set forth in plaintiff's petition, for the purpose of securing from the said seventeen foreign exchange banks a postponement of the date of performance of the exchange obligations entered into between the plaintiff and the said seventeen foreign exchange banks; that in order to secure a postponement of the date of performance of said obligations, it was necessary to make a full disclosure of the condition of the said plaintiff, with regard to its exchange obligations falling due on the 1st day of February, 1921, and during succeeding months, and with regard to other matters directly or indirectly connected therewith; that the question of the postponement of the date of performance of said exchange obligations by the said plaintiff as aforesaid, depended entirely upon the consent and good will of the said foreign exchange banks, and that in order to obtain the same, it was necessary to make a full disclosure of the position of the plaintiff in regard to its exchange obligations as aforesaid, and in regard to other matters directly or indirectly connected therewith —without which the consent and agreement of the said foreign exchange banks as aforesaid to such postponement could not have been obtained; defendant alleges that acting under the authority and discretion in him vested by the head office of the said plaintiff at Manila, he made the necessary disclosures at the meeting of said foreign exchange banks, creditors of the plaintiff, and that in doing so he acted in good faith, for the best interests of the said plaintiff, and in the performance of his duty to his client; defendant further alleges that as a result of the services rendered by him and by Alexander McLure, the plaintiff's auditor, on behalf of the plaintiff at said meeting of foreign exchange banks as aforesaid, the consent and agreement of the said foreign exchange banks were obtained to a postponement of the date of performance of said exchange contracts and obligations of the said plaintiff, and thus prevented the failure and collapse of the said plaintiff's branch bank at Shanghai, on the 1st day of February, 1921.

9.—Defendant further alleges that he fully informed the head office of the plaintiff at Manila both by telegrams and by letters of the services performed by him and on various dates between the 22nd day of January, 1921, and the 5th day of February, 1921, he received by telegrams despatched from the head office of the said plaintiff at Manila expressions of thanks for the services so rendered by the defendant; and defendant also says that he and the plaintiff's auditor were also thanked for the services rendered in connection with the matters aforesaid in preventing the collapse of plaintiff's said branch bank by resolution unanimously adopted by the managers of all of said Foreign Exchange Banks.

In answer to the second cause of action set forth in plaintiff's petition herein defendant alleges:

1.—Admits the allegations contained in paragraphs 1 and 2 of plaintiff's first cause of action.

2.—Defendant admits that in a communication addressed to F. J. Schuhl and H. D. Rodger, he wrote, composed and published the words set forth in paragraph 1 of said second cause of action, but alleges that said communication was privileged, and was made before a committee of the American Far Eastern Bar Association, with whom the said plaintiff had maliciously, falsely, wrongfully and unlawfully lodged a complaint, charging the defendant with representing himself as being the attorney of the plaintiff when in fact he was not; with having represented both sides in the matters referred to in plaintiff's first cause of action, and with having made a full disclosure of the general affairs of the plaintiff to its creditors, without having received the authority from the head office of the said plaintiff, and that in letters and telegrams addressed to the head office defendant had tried to emphasise the extraordinary nature of his services, in order to lay the foundation for claiming a large fee.

3.—Defendant denies each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 3 and 4 of said second cause of action.

As a further and separate defense and by way of counterclaim against the plaintiff herein, the defendant alleges;

1.—That the plaintiff is a banking corporation organised and existing under the laws of the Philippine Islands, and in all times herein mentioned has maintained and still maintains a branch office in the City of Shanghai, China, within the jurisdiction of this Honorable Court.

2.—That the defendant is and was at all times mentioned an attorney and counsellor-at-law, duly admitted to practise in this court, and in other courts in China and elsewhere, and that defendant is a member of the firm of Fleming, Davies and Bryan.

3.—Defendant's said firm, for a long time prior to the 1st day of February, 1921, acted as legal advisers to said plaintiff in many and various legal matters submitted by the said plaintiff to the defendant.

4.—That between the 20th day of January, 1921 and the 12th day of February, 1921, the said defendant as a member of the firm of Fleming, Davies and Bryan, had acted as attorney and legal adviser of the said plaintiff in the matter of examining into the financial affairs of the branch Bank of the said plaintiff at Shanghai, China; reporting the same to the head office of the said Bank at Manila with particular reference to its exchange obligations but with respect to other matters as well; for the further purpose of endeavoring to secure an arrangement or adjustment of the same in order to prevent the failure and collapse of the said plaintiff's branch bank at Shanghai, on the 1st day of February, 1921, or thereafter, upon the due date of exchange obligations from the said plaintiff to the other foreign exchange banks at Shanghai, and others; and for the further purpose of protecting and conserving the interests of the said plaintiff at Shanghai during a financial crisis with which it was faced on the 1st day of February, 1921, and during the succeeding months, until the end of June, 1921.

5.—That the defendant, as attorney and legal adviser of the said plaintiff, between the 21st day of January, 1921, and the 12th day of February, 1921, well and faithfully served the said plaintiff in all matters in which the said services of the said defendant on behalf of the said plaintiff were necessary or advisable, in connection with the financial affairs and exchange obligations of the said plaintiff, as aforesaid, and that the defendant duly reported to the head office of the said plaintiff at Manila, both by telegram and letter, every act and thing done or performed by the said defendant on behalf of the plaintiff, and in its interests, as aforesaid, and duly advised the said head office of the said plaintiff at Manila to the best of his knowledge and ability, with respect to the business entrusted to him, as aforesaid, and that the said plaintiff on various occasions, between the 22nd day of January, 1921, and the 5th day of February, 1921, expressed its thanks to defendant by telegram for the services rendered by the defendant on behalf of the plaintiff as aforesaid.

6.—That the said plaintiff, on or about the 13th day of July, 1921, and on another occasion, between the 13th day of February and the 13th day of July, 1921, the exact date being unknown to the defendant, before one F. J. Schuhl and one H. D. Rodger, a committee of the American Far Eastern Bar Association, did deceitfully, maliciously, falsely, wrongfully and unlawfully and without probable cause charge the defendant and publish and state with reference to him as follows:

1.—That the defendant had represented himself as the attorney of the plaintiff when in fact he was not.

2.—That the defendant had represented both sides in the matter concerning the plaintiff bank hereinbefore mentioned.

3.—That the defendant had made a full disclosure of the general affairs of the bank without receiving the authority from the main office.

4.—That the defendant, in all telegrams and letters sent to the head office of the plaintiff at Manila, tried to emphasise the extraordinary nature of the services rendered by the defendant, in order to lay a foundation for a big fee.

5.—That said publication, statement and charge was false, scandalous, defamatory, malicious, wilful and unlawful, and was published by the said plaintiff with the intent and for the purpose of defaming, injuring and damaging the said defendant in his good name, fame and reputation.

6.—That the defendant has sustained damage by reason of said false and defamatory charge, statement and publication, in the sum of Tls. 650,000.00.

Wherefore defendant prays for judgment against said plaintiff as follows:

1.—For the dismissal of plaintiff's said petition.

2.—For the sum of Tls. 650,000.00 damages as aforesaid.

3.—For costs.

Shanghai, August 18, 1921.

SAFEGUARD THE CHILDREN
Again Hot Weather Ills.

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and stomach troubles are rife at this time, and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours illness.

The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, in the house feels safe. The occasional use of these Tablets prevents stomach and bowel troubles, and if sickness comes suddenly they help bring the little one through.

Baby's Own Tablets make teething easy, are a positively harmless remedy for simple fever, indigestion, colic, constipation, diarrhoea and worms. Are equally helpful to the youngest infant as to the child of 6 or 8 years. Obtainable from druggists, also post free, 60 cents the vial, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

COURT CONVICTS UNFILIAL SON

Youth Must Serve 60 Days Of Imprisonment For Molesting Parents

Two months imprisonment was the sentence passed on a young Cantonese in the Mixed Court yesterday for molesting and attacking his parents after he had been disowned by the family for associating himself with bad characters, commonly known in Shanghai as Laodutsze. The Court further ordered that the prisoner be bound over not to further molest his parents after serving his term.

Mr. Y. S. Zia prosecuted on behalf of the parents. The case was heard before Magistrate Yui and American Assessor M. F. Perkins.

The father testified that an advertisement had been inserted in the Chinese press informing the public he had irrevocably expelled his son from his house and now disowned him. This he had been reluctantly compelled to do as the boy had become an associate of bad characters, and had been threatening and actually committing violence on his parents, from whom he had been trying to extort money, that he might be enabled to continue in his evil ways without the necessity for work. The parents had given him money until they realised that it was useless, and Wednesday when he had come to the house they had flatly refused to give him any more. On meeting with an unexpected refusal their son had used foul and abusive language and attacked his parents. He then lay down on the floor, announcing his intention of remaining there until money was forthcoming. The police had been sent for, and the boy taken away in custody.

The boy's mother corroborated what her husband had said, and told the court that on July 22 he had brought about 10 loafers to the house, and armed with a revolver, which she had seen clearly in his hand, had threatened to shoot them unless they gave him money. He had then incited the loafers to throw stones at the doors and windows. The mother, as a reason for not reporting the matter then and there to the police, explained that she believed herself and her husband to be in danger of their lives. He had always been a bad dispositioned boy, and was wont to steal his mother's property in order to sell it and obtain money, but he had never been so bad as since he returned from Canton in February last, where he had been sent to a school of engineering. When he returned in February last, after having been expelled for bad behavior, he had only the clothes he was actually wearing at the time. Everything else had been sold. Both parents had despaired of ever making a decent citizen out of him, and had decided on what they considered the only course open to them.

SEVENTY DEATHS MAY BE DUE TO BARBAROUS BAND

(Reuter's Service)

New York, August 17.—A confession by an Italian barber, named Fontano, one of the eight men arrested on murder charges, has revealed 17 murders by a gang in New York, Detroit and New Jersey. The police of Detroit say that the arrests may clear up 70 murders at Detroit.

Another member of the gang admits killing a confederate. He says the gang went in fear of their lives, lest one or more of them should confess. The object of the murders appears to have been connected with the gang's effort to control both in America and Italy what is known as the "lottery policy game."

Wilkins Brothers Sued In U.S. Court By Bowern Company

Suit to recover the sum of Tls. 14,602.74 was filed in the United States Court for China yesterday by T. W. Bowern and Company against Wilkins Brothers and Company. It is alleged that the indebtedness is represented by overdue promissory notes which the defendant company has refused to meet and the petition sets forth that various checks and orders for payment that were presented on the Asia Banking Corporation by the defendant company were not honored.

Mr. P. W. Goldring represents the plaintiff company in the action.

Dike Broken And Many Insurgents Drowned

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hankow, August 17.—The steamer Shasi, which had started on a trip up-river, was returning hither to escape being fired on when she met H.M.S. Bee. She thereupon turned back, and was escorted safely through the area of operations without any firing taking place. Five Chinese gunboats were seen firing on the insurgents at long intervals above Kinkow.

The river embankment at Kinkow has broken through, and the place is flooded. Many of the insurgent forces have been drowned, and the rest have retired 20 li.

General Hsiao Yao-nan, the new Tuchun, called on the foreign consuls this afternoon. General Wu Pei-fu is also at Hankow.

It is stated that the Chinese Chamber of Commerce has refused to grant a loan for military purposes, and that the chairman has disappeared.

9TH CAVALRY MAKE IT SIX STRAIGHT BY RUNNING OFF WITH FINAL GAME, 13-1

Numberless Bingles And Innumerable Errors Present Game To Visitors; Crippled Local Nine Finishes Still Fighting; Benefit Game For Cavalry Saturday

Shanghai played another one of those games of baseball yesterday afternoon. And they played the game right away. When the final count was taken it was found that they had playfully booted the horsehide around ten times; they had scored but one lonesome little run, which they really and truly earned by a momentary lapse to serious work; they had counted up against them the unlucky total of 13 runs. There was no question as to who won the day of play.

Considering baseball seriously for a moment the Cavalry earned but three runs, even though they were poling the old ball out for bonafide safeties totalling up to 14. Had Wilhoit's men played a clean game the score would have stood at 3-1. And that speaks some for local fielders, for those Cavalrymen surely do drive the ball.

It was the last game of the regular series of six. It gave the visitors a record of six straight wins. It must also give them the impression that Shanghai is an easy team to win over.

It should be published however, that the Cavalry team reached Shanghai for this series at perhaps the most unfortunate and inopportune time of the year. With Maloney, Hopkins and Dennison sick, with Roeser limping to the grounds every day up until yesterday in a carpet slipper yet playing sterling ball in spite of his injury, with Bills taking to his bed Wednesday sick, Shanghai was so weakened that they never had a chance with the strong, smooth, confident negro nine.

Capt. Wilhoit did well with the material he had. He might have selected better players than he did, but he was playing for a safe and experienced lineup, and thought he had his best men out. When the attack of the Cavalrymen became too strong for the weakened Shanghai team, their morale flew away with every Cavalry drive, they went to pieces, even Bills, and Cy with the others.

The work of Merrill and Terry in the series must be mentioned as worthy of better support. With both men bearing the brunt, they gave their best, and their best was good enough to win. Merrill almost threw his arm away on Tuesday because he knew that Terry was sore and in no shape to pitch. Dennison also in the one game he pitched showed effectiveness sufficient to win excepting for that one unfortunate second inning.

There will be no game today even though the Cavalry team will lay over until Sunday morning for their boat to Manila. Shanghai players need the rest. A final match will be played Saturday however, by special arrangement, as a benefit game. A charge of one dollar for each and every fan, member or non-member will be made. The proceeds are to be split 70 percent for individual bonuses to the Cavalry players, as an appreciation of their excellent playing of the National Game, and 30 percent to the club to help defray the big expense of financing the series.

An item of tomorrow's program which should furnish great interest for baseball fans will be a ball throwing contest between members of the Cavalry team. An attempt will be made to break the long distance throwing record established three years ago by Catcher Jordan of the former Ninth Cavalry team which played here in Shanghai. Catcher Martin of the present nine, who has such a sharp throw to second base hopes to set a new mark, and other players of his team will compete with him, with perhaps one or more Shanghai players also trying.

The record made by Jordan in 1918, according to Capt. Barrett's official record was for 402 feet. Cy Wilhoit says Jordan actually threw the ball 404 feet 6 inches, from deep center field in to the grandstand behind home plate, but the official mark stands at 402 feet. The ball used was a cricket ball, and new cricket balls will be used again tomorrow. The tests will be made between the fourth and fifth innings.

Comments On The Game

Writing about yesterday's party at the old ball park is a problem in restraint. What the chronicler of that affair would like to say is tempered by the reflection that this is a genteel journal, circulating among families in which there are young and impressionable children whose young ears must not be soiled by assertions which could have no virtue except truth, and truth, as everybody knows, is a terrible thing at times.

To tell the truth about it would kick up an ocean of incredulity. Those who didn't see it would swear we were spoofing if we gave an exact account of what really happened, in proof of which we offer the statement, which will be willingly subscribed to all those who saw it, that none of those who were present really believed his own eyes.

Glauque choked off the first batsmen in the very first frame with a dandy peg to second for the first out. That peg had a moral effect. It stopped other bold pilfering. The four steals checked up against Charley were none chargeable to a weak or timid arm.

Roeser, who has limped to the park every day in a carpet slipper and a cane had to quit yesterday. He deserves a hand for his game and clever work in the first five games.

There's one good thing you can say about the party, namely, that it was a good reminder. It sure did bring back memories of the old days of long ago when the Bear Cats and Red Terrors used to fight it out for the eight year olds' championship down on O'connor's flat.

Savage's hitting yesterday was a feature. He started the run getting for the visitors in the first frame with a sure-enough homer to left. The ball eluded Smith and bounded through the door of the swimming club for a deep dive. Smith had his troubles fielding it. Savage got four hits in six times at bat.

Fourteen hits, ten errors, two passed balls, a hit by pitcher, and four stolen bases—that's the answer.

The most interesting part of the afternoon's program was the lonesome run that Smith scored for Shanghai. He tripled to left field. He might have made it a homer but his red sock weren't working very fast. Glauque's hit through Barnett brought him in. He got a reception. He saved a shut out.

Merrill bungled in the first frame trying to score after Barnett had copped off Glauque's foul fly near first base. He hadn't a chance, and he seemed to know it for he faltered in his leisurely dash for home, and was easily thrown out. But never mind—Merrill can afford to pull a few boners.

Wilhoit drove a fearful one at Young in the third inning. He met the first ball for a line shot straight at the colored boy's bean. Young was fortunate enough to get his mits up in time to brush it away, and Pearson was nearby to gather it up for an out at first.

Barnett pulled a fast double play in the eight inning. He grabbed off Crow's grounder near first for an easy out and shot the pill across to third choking off Glauque who was trying to advance from second. A ball player must be on his toes to pull a double like that. And Barnett, in spite of his angles is always on his toes—all eleven of them.

Not one Shanghai player struck out yesterday. It speaks something for their hitting, for Young was working fairly strong.

RECS WILL PLAY STRONGER PAIRS AT TENNIS TODAY

City League Tourney Promises Keen Contest For Second Place In Standings

The Shanghai Recreation Club will have its strongest tennis players on the courts this afternoon when they meet the Country Club in the fourth round of the City League Tennis Tournament of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association.

The five pairs for the Recs and their opponents this evening follow:

RECS	COUNTRY CLUB
J. L. Wade H. B. Ollerdessen	Leslie Murray
W. T. Manley G. L. Manley	M. B. Brown Seddon
J. P. Hawes T. W. R. Wilson	Skinner Turner Saunders
J. A. Quayle A. V. White	Fearon Wilkinson
R. J. S. Brandt T. G. Main	Denham Hill

Reserves: C. J. Smith and L. P. Quincey (Recs).

Other matches in the league play today have the Cercle Sportif opposing the C.C.C., and the Japanese Club meeting the Cricket Club. The Recs and the French Club play on their home courts, while the Japanese-Cricket Club game will probably be switched to the latter's grounds because of the limited space on the Japanese field.

The Portuguese Sporting Association, the leaders in the tournament, enjoy a bye today. The C.C.C. is runner up with seven points; the Recs and Country Club each stand with six points while the Japanese and Cercle Sportif each have five. The Cricket Club ranks last with three points.

Second Strings Recs and S.C.C. Play Today

The second strings of the Recs and the Cricket Clubs tennis sections will meet in a five-pair match this evening commencing at 5 o'clock. The game which is a friendly affair, is to be played on the S.C.C. courts. The pairs follow:

S.R.C.	S.C.C.
A. J. Willis S. Emamooden	Leslie Clifford
L. P. Quincey C. J. Smith	Chandler Hearne
P. Madar C. Madar	Bichara Hill
F. J. Brand W. F. Ferris	Calley Fussey
B. H. Smith T. C. Roberts	Deeks Benwell

Reserves (Recs.)—J. H. Logan and C. H. Bhoora.

Gibbons Is Not Bashful; He Asks $60,000 To Fight

Whatever else may be said of Mr. Tom Gibbons, of St. Paul, he is not bashful. He wants $60,000 for his end of a battle with Georges Carpentier for the light heavyweight title.

Up to this time that particular title has been appraised at about $1.25 cash. Jack Dillon, the man mauler from Indianapolis, once thought so little of it that he never claimed it even while all the authorities were accusing him of holding it.

If Gibbons gets $60,000 for his share the redoubtable Georges is sure to get still more, because Georges is the drawing card. Thus the fight will run into large money.

Those Gibbons boys, of St. Paul, are certainly two lucky gents. Mike once fell into a $17,000 match here with Packy McFarland with no title or much of anything else at stake, and now Tom is being pitchforked into a profitable contest on the basis of nothing.

BEATING "SOFT ONES"

Tom has been fighting a long time and never demonstrated any startling class. Recently he has been bowling over medicore opponents with regularity and promptly he was hailed in some quarters as a wonder.

Battling Levinsky is the holder of the American light heavyweight title at this time, although he was beaten for the world's title by Carpentier. Levinsky, however, is considered out of the running. Gibbons, Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, and a number of others are rated ahead of the old battler in the light heavy division.

Greb thinks he can whip Carpentier and a lot of good judges agree with him. The Pittsburger is not a knocker-out but he has a style that is bound to trouble any opponent not barring the best of the heavyweights.

Gibbons might have a few pounds in weight on Carpentier, but he would be giving the Frenchman whatever advantage is contained in six years in age. Gibbons, until lately, was never considered a knocker-out, and the recent victims of his punch have been such as Paul Sampson, old Porky Flynn, and fat Willie Meehan.

WILSON THE MAN

Johnny Wilson, the middleweight champion of the world, is a legitimate opponent for Carpentier if the Frenchman wants to take a fifteen or twenty-pound pull in the weights, instead of giving away poundage. Wilson has challenged Carpentier, and seems to be willing to make reasonable terms.

Make no mistake, the Italian-

May Be Carpentier's Next American Opponent

It is said that a match between Georges Carpentier and Tom Gibbons, of St. Paul, is now being arranged for October or November. If they meet the bout will be for the light heavyweight championship of the world, as Carpentier is the European title holder, and Gibbons is the best of the American light heavies. They both weigh 172 pounds in fighting trim. Gibbons has now run off thirteen consecutive knockouts, among whom were Willie Meehan, in one round. Meehan holds two referee's decisions over Champion Jack Dempsey. Photo shows Gibbons using one of his favorite punches, a left jab.

LIGHT HORSE AND POLO CLUB WIN PRELIMINARY PLAY FOR DALLAS CUPS

Club's Strongest Players Divided Into Four Fighting Teams; Contests Are Keen; Interport Probables Play Well; Finals Set For Saturday At 5 p.m.

The Light Horse and the Polo Club teams yesterday evening qualified for play in the finals on Saturday in the tournament for the George Dallas cups, by their respective wins over teams representing the Race Club and the Ewo Past and Present.

The Polo Club-Ewo match which finished its four chukkers first last evening resulted in a score of 3 for the club and 1 for Ewo. The Light Horse-Race Club match went into the dusk for a final score of 5 goals to 2, in favor of the Horse.

The play yesterday showed some of the best polo that has been seen on the Club's field this season. All of the interport selections for play at Hongkong were in the lineups, together with several of the most likely reserves, and interporters of other years.

The Light Horse, on paper, with McMichael and Robinson, two interport players, and David and Crokam both playing strong and effectively, stood out even before the play yesterday as possessing greatest strength. And their win over the Race Club, though keenly contested to the last whistle was consistent with their paper form.

Brennan, a third interporter, played for the Polo Club, with Dallas, one of last year's selections, and Fearon and Hine. Their combination was strong. The Ewo team played them hard and steadily, but their shooting was unfortunate: they couldn't register the goals.

Boyd, the fourth member of the probable Hongkong team, with Hickling, mentioned as most possible reserve, together with Patterson and Eastwood gave the Ewo team a strong lineup.

For the Polo Club Brennan scored a goal in the first chukker to Ewo's nil. The second chukker was goalless. In the third period Dallas added one for the Club, while Hickling put one through for Ewo. In the final chukker Brennan gave the third goal to the Polo Club, for the total score of 3-1.

McMichael and David each scored one for the Light Horse in their first period. In the next chukker the Race Club tied the score, when Davis and Rowe each counted one, bringing the score to two all. In the third David added two more and McMichael one. The last chukker was without scoring. The final count was 5-2.

Saturday's final match will commence at 5 p.m.

American would give Georges a good fight. He has a terrific left-hand rip to the body that would annoy Carpentier, especially as the latter does not seem able to stand much body punishment.

Many believe that Wilson would give Carpentier a better fight than Gibbons.

It is doubtful if Carpentier would consider any of the American heavyweights until after he has met a man more his size. Charley Weinert wants to fight hi[illegible] so do several others.

Some are trying to find a line on G[illegible] ability in the Martin-Moran affair. Carpentier beat Beckett in a round, and Moran beat Beckett in three rounds. Now Martin, a comparatively raw hand, beats Moran in seven rounds.

DEMPSEY IN NO DANGER

On this basis Martin ought to beat Beckett about as quickly as Carpentier. However, "dope" of this nature means nothing. Martin showed little class against Moran, and it is the opinion of most of those who saw the fight that Carpentier's deadly right would soon dispose of the A. E. F. champion.

It looks as if Dempsey's crown as heavyweight champion is secure for some time. Bill Brennan, with his twelve rounds against the champion to Carpentier's four, remains the runner up, and few believe that Brennan would do any better in a third meeting with Dempsey than he did at Madison Square Garden.

Sporting Editor's Letter Box

Sporting Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: For the purpose of settling a bet please inform me whether there were any home runs in yesterday's (Wednesday's) Baseball Game between Shanghai and the 9th Cavalry, U.S.A.

Yours truly,
ABSENT BASEBALL FAN.

There were no home runs in Wednesday's game.

Only two extra base hits were made. One was a triple by Savage in the seventh inning; the other was a double by Smith of Shanghai in the eighth.

On that hit, however Smith continued to third base on the outfielder's throw-in to the plate to catch Glauque for the second out, and went on home when Evans at third base muffed Martin's peg to stop him.

Smith's circuit around the bases can only be scored as a two-base hit, as proceeding to third on the throw-in to play another man at the plate, and as going home on Evans' error.—Ed.

Shanghai Volunteer Corps Notes

A good start has already been made in the preparation of a squared map of Shanghai and neighborhood. A considerable number of public and private surveys already exist but have hitherto not been coordinated so as to be of any great military value. Those who have been responsible for the compilation of such surveys have been kind enough to place their work at the Corps' disposal.

All units, except the Light Horse, have now got the short rifle. Issue of this rifle to the Light Horse is awaiting the arrival of a new rifle bucket, as the present carbine bucket is too small. If the new buckets have not arrived before the A.R.M. takes place, any member of the Light Horse will be able to obtain his short rifle and bayonet beforehand in order to compete in the meeting. Similarly, as many of the events in the A.R.M. entail 'fixed bayonets,' any member of the Corps, who ordinarily has not a bayonet as part of his equipment, will be able to obtain one on loan from Corps Headquarters for use during the meeting.

MARITIME COMPANY

The Company will hold their August Monthly Competition on Sunday, August 21, at 9 a.m. to compete for the usual fine cup and the original Maritime Company spoon for each class. The annual company dinner will take place about September 15 before the commencement of the training season. A cruise consisting of a picnic up the river is being arranged, having proved very popular last year. Recruits are coming in steadily, and a few more would be welcomed. The N. C. O.'s are quite busy getting ready for the training season, and any information that is required by those who intend joining up will be supplied upon application to Sergt. Tobias, 17 Nanking Road where enlistment forms can be had.

PORTUGUESE COMPANY

The Company is going to celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of its formation by a dinner at the Lusitano Club on the evening of 'Mesquita Day,' August 25, 1921.

SHANGHAI SCOTTISH

An interplatoon Tennis Competition is in progress and latest returns show that No. 1 Platoon leads by a narrow margin.

So great is the enthusiasm for inter-company challenges at all branches of sport that a Company Games Committee is being formed.

A parade is ordered for Sunday, September 11, when a tactical exercise will be carried out.

Machine Gun Co. Shoot Tomorrow

Members of the Machine Gun Co., S.V.C., are reminded that the August Monthly Cup shoot will be held tomorrow from 6:30 to 8:30 a.m. and 5 to 6:30 p.m.

Departing Students Are Entertained By Educational Bodies

Chinese collegians who recently passed the competitive examinations of the Nanyang Brothers and Kan Chiu-nam scholarships as well as delegates to the Conference for Vocational Education which began its session here on Wednesday, were guests at a reception held yesterday at the Kiangsu Educational Association, West Gate.

The hosts were the Kiangsu Educational Association and the Vocational Educational Association. Over a hundred guests attended the reception. Speeches were made by Dr. P. W. Kuo, Dr. Huang Yen-pei, Mr. Shen Hsin-ching, Mr. Yuan Shu-yu and a representative of the students. Mr. H. Y. Moh, the cotton magnate, entertained the guest with a Quisan song.

GREEKS CAPTURE ISMID AREA AS TURKS RETREAT

(Reuter's Service)

Athens, August 17.—It is officially announced that Greek troops have resumed their advance and have reached a line 42 miles beyond Eskishehr. Feeble resistance to the advance continues. The papers report that the Turks have evacuated the Ismid Peninsula.

Conseil D'Administration Municipale De La Concession Francaise de Changhai

MUNICIPAL LOAN OF 1921

(20,000 debentures of Tls. 100 each).

Rate of interest 8% per annum

The "Conseil d'Administration Municipale de la Concession Francaise de Changhai" hereby invite subscriptions for 20,000 debentures of Tls. 100 each, according to the resolution passed at their General Meeting on May 30, 1921.

The conditions on which the Debenture Certificates will be issued are:—

1°—The Debenture Certificates are transferable, and the person whose name is entered in the Register of Debenture Certificate or Certificates, shall alone be recognised and treated by the Council as the lawful and rightful holder and owner of such Debenture Certificate or Certificates.

2°—The loan will be redeemable at par (Tls. 100) in not less than 10 years and not more than 30 years, from 1st July, 1931 and according to the figures determinated by the Council.

3°—The loan will bear interest at 8% per annum, payable on the 30th day of June and 31st of December in each year, when interest warrants will be issued to the registered owners.

4°—The property and income of the Municipality, deducting those which serve as security provided in the Municipal Loans of 1903, 1911, 1914 and 1916 are the security for the repayment of the money advanced and for the interest thereon in the present loan.

The Members of the French Municipal Council are not personally liable in any way for the payment of either principal or interests.

5°—Applications for debentures will be received at the Secretary's Office, Rue du Consulat.

A cheque representing the amount of debentures asked for must be deposited at the same time.

6°—Applications for Debentures under par will not be recognised by the Council.

7°—For further informations, apply to Mr. P. LEGENDRE, Secretary, French Municipal Council.

Shanghai, 1st July, 1921.
P. LEGENDRE,
40063 Secretary.

Exchange Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows in their exchange circular for week ending August 17:

Exchange:—The London price of silver at 38d. shows a rise of 1¾d. during the week. This rise is probably the reflection of the fall in the New York London cross-rate to 3.64½, and the firm exchange market which has ruled in Shanghai. Our rate for T.T. on London at 3/8d. is up 1½d. and the market rules firm pending the arrival of further supplies of silver, which are due shortly. The strength in our exchange Market has been augmented by the placing of paper by Insurance Companies on the market to provide funds to settle insurance claims, in connection with the big fire which occurred in March last. These claims are due to be settled on the 27th instant to the extent of about Tls. 4,000,000. The greater part of exchange settlements in this connection have now been made and considering the amount involved have not affected our exchange market to the extent anticipated by our local Gold Dealers and the Chinese Exchange Banks. Once these payments are made and further supplies of silver arrive it may be taken that a more free circulation of the currency of the Port may be looked for and an easier exchange Market. Silk paper on France has been offering freely, but apart from this Exports remain dull and the 15 percent rise in freight will not assist in this respect.

We close strong for early delivery, and easier forward.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 26,903,000, a decrease of Tls. 77,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $24,990,000, practically unchanged.

Estimated value in Taels Tls. 44,920,000, as against Tls. 51,000,000 held at this time last year.

Silk Shipment

Silk shipped from Shanghai per C.P.O.S. liner Empress of Asia on July 23 arrived in New York on August 15.

Hankow Market

The British Chamber of Commerce of Hankow state as follows in their weekly circular dated Hankow, August 10:

FINANCE AND MONEY MARKET

Since our last report Bar Silver in London has declined 2⅝d. ready and 2d. forward, the respective quotations on the 10th instant being 36¼ and 36⅛. In sympathy with silver, exchange rates have dropped 2½d. since the 4th instant the official quotations being T.T. 3/8 and 4 m-s. credits 3/11 at the end of the week. The New York London cross rate shows a considerable advance the latest information at the week end being 3.70⅜ as against 3.56½ the previous week. Chinese Market Rates: Shanghai Taels 96.7375. Dollars local currency 70.2. Native Interest: 15 percent per annum.

EXPORTS

Local Tael prices rule firm with an upward tendency. The uncertain Political situation has had the effect of making Native dealers averse to the negotiation of business in many cases. Local stocks of produce are light also so that although a better feeling has made its appearance in the home markets conditions prevailing here render it difficult to transact business. Cowhides, Sesamum Seed, Beans and Peas are now quoted much above the parity of home values.

IMPORTS

Piece Goods:—The market continues to be adversely affected by the Political situation and business is practically at a standstill. The Native banks having stopped all credits, clearances are non-existant.

Yarn:—Nothing of interest to report.

Traffic On Tramways Shows Big Increase

WEATHER

The typhoon advances on the Yellow Sea, along the 30th parallel; it may still, of course, recurve, but if it keeps in the direction it is following just now, it marches straight towards our coast, and threatens it, at a point between the mouth of the Yangtsze and the Bay of Hangchow, which might raise a gale equal to, if not heavier than that of 1915, tomorrow or on Saturday. At the same time, as it coincides with the high tides of the full moon, it might cause floods in the neighborhood.

Russia's Recent Treaties

ATTEMPTS have been made from time to time to discredit the suggestions that have been made by the Mission of the Far Eastern Republic to China that it was prepared to deal with the Chinese Government on a basis of justice and equality. It has been hinted that these and similar professions on the part of the Far Eastern Republic are not sincere. The same, it will be remembered, was said of Moscow's promises to Turkey, to Persia and to Afghanistan.

In the light of information only recently to hand it may be interesting to see what Russian promises amount to when reduced to the uninspiring prose of treaties. The Manchester Guardian some time ago published the texts of the Russo-Persian and Russo-Afghan treaties, and the May issue of The Contemporary Review contained an outline of the more recently concluded Russo-Turkish Treaty. Speaking of the latest of these, The Contemporay Review, in a short introductory note, says that with respect to Turkish independence and sovereignty, to the financial obligations of Turkey to Russia under former treaties, to the capitulations (mixed courts) and to the control of the Straits, the treaty shows "the same policy of extremely generous treatment of Asiatic peoples by the Russian Government as those Treaties between Russia and Persia and Afghanistan."

It is reasonable to suppose that if the Moscow Government, able militarily to impose its will on Turkey, Persia and Afghanistan, can and does live up to its promises, Chita, which cannot coerce Peking into anything that Peking does not wish to concede, will do likewise; and it is reasonable to suppose that the Chita Government will be no less generous than the Moscow Government has been; in which case China has a great deal to hope for from the conclusion of commercial and political treaties both with Chita and with Moscow.

To take the Russo-Persian Treaty first. It is a most remarkable document. To begin with, the Moscow Government repudiates the old agreements between the British and the Russian Governments by which Persia was divided into two spheres of influence. It is over twenty years since the spheres of influence policy was theoretically abandoned by the foreign Powers in China, but for practical purposes it has been revived in China by Japan, and in defense of their commercial interests other Powers have been obliged in some degree to follow suit. Russia has repudiated the policy with respect to Persia, and the likelihood of the slicing of the melon in Persia has disappeared from practical politics, along, by the way, with the recent Anglo-Persian Convention which would have made of Persia a second Afghanistan, only more so. The British Government has recognised this, for in answer to a question in the House of Commons the British Government has stated that it considers the agreement as having lapsed.

Next, all the Russian assets centered in the famous Discount Credit Bank of Russia and the whole of the Russian movable and immovable property in Persia, land, buildings, railways, rolling-stock, quays, electric power-stations, telegraphs and telephone lines, are made over to Persia absolutely. The Soviet Government also renounces all rights in the loans contracted by Persia from the Tsarist Government. This is a remarkable innovation in international relations. According to the accepted principles of international law the Government of a state that has changed its form of government is liable for the debts the state as a state contracted under the earlier regime. Moscow practically says to Teheran, "Never mind the stupidities of International Law. We are above them, and we will prove it by remitting to you whatever debt you may have owed to the Russian state."

The Tsarist regime in Russia, it will be remembered, would only consent, when China came into the war, to postpone payment of a portion of the Boxer Indemnity, whilst the other powers consented to a postponement of the whole. What a difference between Tsarist and Soviet Russia, the latter of whom freely forgives Persia all her debt!

When we turn to the Russo-Turkish Treaty we find terms equally generous. On the very threshold of the Treaty is the following:

The two parties agree to recognize no international act imposed by force by (on?) one of the contracting parties. In particular Russia will recognise no international treaty nor any act affecting Turkey which is not recognised by the Turkish National Assembly.

Had this principle been recognised in China in 1913 the Chinese people would today be owing £25,000,000 less to the Consortium than they actually do; and had the Japanese Government recognised the principle during the years 1918-20 the Chinese people would now owe to Japan three hundred million yen less than they do. The Moscow authorities here stand out for a very definite and very wholesome principle as between one state and another, that the government of the one shall not regard the necessities of the government of the other merely as an opportunity of placing the whole of the necessitous state in economic slavery to the other. Foreign loans must receive the sanction of the representative institutions of the country. This is sound doctrine, so sound that it has long been the rule in advanced countries; but so inconvenient to some that it has been systematically ignored in the relations between rich and poor states, or between what the world generally is accustomed to call advanced and backward states.

In financial matters Russia is as generous to Turkey as we have seen her to be to Persia, for "Russia regards Turkey as free of all financial obligations based on former treaties between Turkey and the Tsarist Government."

There is no need to examine these Russian treaties in further detail. As a British contemporary has put it: "The Moscow Asiatic policy constitutes in effect a complete revolution in the accepted relationships between European states and Asiatic peoples. Its effects throughout the entire East cannot fail to be profound. As instruments making for fundamental changes in the world, we are not sure that these Russian treaties with Afghanistan and Persia [and Turkey] are not as epochmaking as the Russian upheaval itself."

RHYMES OF THE TIMES

Now Wu Pei-fu is in the field
Since it's becoming urgent
That to authority must yield
Each bandit and insurgent.
In Ireland it remains the aim:
From England separation,
But Ulster's claim is
Its chief aim is,
Empire Consolidation.

JAP POLITENESS

The politeness of the Japanese is proverbial. It is rapidly becoming only proverbial. At a social occasion in Washington a young woman happened to say to an attache of the Japanese embassy:

"In your country, you compress the women's feet, do you not?"

"No, madam, that is, or rather was, a Chinese custom. In Japan we allow our ladies feet to grow to their full size," replied the Japanese.

And then after a bow, he added in the politest of tones: "Not that we could ever hope to rival yours, madam."

A CRICKET YARN

The newly appointed curate was making his first appearance for the village cricket club. "You'll be tidy smart in the field, I reckon, sir?" queried his captain when the opposing team went into bat.

"I'm pretty bad all round," answered the curate, "and a positively awful field."

"Reckon you'd better take point then," answered the skipper, and the curate, wondering on what grounds the decision was based, took up his position.

The big-wig of the home team began scoring in fine style. Not a ball was sent within a foot of the wicket, and catch after catch was missed; but still the fielding side seemed to be on good terms with themselves.

At last the batsmen hit the ball in point's direction. The curate made a dash at it and brought off a brilliant catch. The captain's face was a study.

"Thought you said as how were no good in the field?" he bellowed, "If it weren't a parson I'd be tempted to say something nasty. That chap as you catched always stands we bread and cheese and beer whenever he scores fifty, and now, thanks to you, we shall have to go home hungry."

THE LOSS OF THE ASHES

(The Australian team won three out of the five test matches and thus take the mythical Ashes.)

Though Erin's Isle is filled with deeds
That point to revolution;
And every day the Empire's needs
Demand a quick solution,
It matters not—for Armstrong dashes
Our hopes. We've lost the cricket "Ashes."

Though thousands still are unemployed,
And trouble rocks the nation,
Though millions justly are annoyed
At the excess taxation;
We care not. Now the Empire crashes—
We've lost once more those cricket "Ashes."

MOVED AND SECONDED

A lawyer was retained to defend a darky accused of absconding with the funds of a colored debating society. The outlook for the defendant was rather black. At the trial the attorney for the defense arose, as soon as the charge had been read and said:

"Your Honor I move that this indictment be dismissed—"

Before he could proceed further his client was on his feet, too, addressing the bench without a trace of embarrassment.

"Your Honor," he shouted, "I seconds that motion."

Constantinople Longs For Peace

Great Turkish Capital, Distracted And Unhappy, Anxiously Awaits Outcome Of Fighting In Anatolia, Which Keeps City In Turmoil

BY M. K. ZIA BEY

We always think of Constantinople as a fairy city of the Arabian nights, lazily slumbering in a midst of gold and luxury, with a population of slow moving and placed Turks, ground by an everyday routine dating from centuries, with enturbaned pashas covered with silk and jewels, with sensuous slave markets flourishing among palm trees and tropical flowers, and with caravans of camels bringing through deserts and sands the rich treasures of Arabia and Turkestan to great metropolis at the door of Europe.

The newcomer to Constantinople is at once surprised and disappointed not to find this picture true to life and is obliged to admit that either the Orient has been very rapidly westernised or else that the Western World has been very slow in getting accurate information on the changes brought in the last century to this part of the world.

The truth is that the Constantinople of our dreams, with it picturesque inhabitants, disappeared many generations ago. While it is true that this city was once upon a time prosperous and rich, and that pashas wore turbans and jewels and dressed in silk, palm trees and orange groves have never existed here. Far from being tropical, the climate is about the same as that of New York, and the cold winds of the Black Sea make of the city much more a Summer resort than a second Egypt.

Then again the population is neither slow moving and placid nor exclusively Turkish. Although the great majority of its one million and a half inhabitants are Turks, this Turkish population leads a very retired life and is very little in evidence since the armistice. Therefore, the two or three hundred thousands of its active and noisy cosmopolitan element seems to be supreme, especially in Pera, and its hustling and chatter surprise the newcomer.

As a whole and in every walk of life the entire population, Turkish and cosmopolitan, is fully awakened to the grim necessities of modern days and is engaged—noiselessly or otherwise, according to its individual temperament—in a deathly struggle to secure the bare necessities of life.

A HUSTLING METROPOLIS

Thus the fairy city of our dreams has given place to a hustling motropolis similar in some ways to many other metropolis in southern Europe and even to our own New Orleans. The city is divided in three distinct parts, separated by the Golden Horn and the Bosphorus, Peru and Stamboul on the European side, and Scutari on the shores of Asia. While Scutari is considered to be a suburb, it really is to Constantinople what Brooklyn is to New York, and the commuters of Scutari are as anxious to participate in the work and daily life of the city proper as are the Brooklynites. Unfortunately for them, however, they have no subways and are obliged to commute—in broad daylight—by ships and ferries, where they cannot keep a discreet incognito.

Scutari is common-place. Its small houses, nestled on the hills, are mostly of the type popular here half a century ago and dating from that period—known to us as early Victorian—when all the world seems to have lost any sense of art without having yet acquired the most rudimentary knowledge of comfort. Of course there are near and about one or two landmarks worth noticing, but as far as individuality is concerned it is and remains a suburb without much character, but with a beautiful view. Its immense graveyard, with secular cypresses, typifies best this part of the city, which has no distinct life of its own.

Stamboul, on the contrary has a very distinct character and individuality, despite the misery of its population, despite the fact that nearly half of its houses and dwellings have been destroyed by fire and that their ruins remain still on endless vacant grounds.

As a once-beautiful empress in exile, having lost her crown, her youth and her power, Stamboul—the essentially Turkish Stamboul—with large squares and streets, shaded by plane-trees, remains dignified and stately amidst the ruins of a glorious past and silently pulsating with the hopes of a prosperous future, confident in herself and in the immortality of her soul.

Empires have some and empires may go, but having been for six hundred years the heart and brain of the Turkish Empire, having shared—nay, having caused—its glory and its downfall, Stamboul will for ever remain the typically Turkish city of the world.

AS TURKISH AS EVER

While no pashas in silken finery ride any more on richly cuparassoned Arab horses through the streets of Stamboul, while most of her public buildings have been requisitioned by the armies of occupation, while electric cars and automobiles drive through the very streets once used by the caravaneer of Asia and Arabia, and while Turkish ladies with their faces unveiled and wearing the most becoming modern "Charshaf" tread today freely on the very pavements which their less fortunate grandmothers could only look upon at a distance from behind latticed windows. Stamboul's very soul has remained as Turkish as ever.

The most characteristic things in Stamboul are, of course her innumerable mosques with their slender minarets pointing to the sky as tapered fingers invoking the Almighty. Many of these mosques are historic, and nearly all of them are jewels of an architecture produced by a civilisation originated in Asia and Arabia but tempered by the climatic requirements of the country as well as by Venetian and Genoese influence.

These mosques, big and small, were principally meant to be used as meeting places where peo-

"COMMANDER" Stories

A Bishop was visiting at the home of one of his clergy, and the little daughter of the house had been told by her mother to take great care in her choice of expressions.

All went well until at luncheon the little girl seemed worried about something, drumming on the table with her spoon and so on, when she suddenly turned to the bishop and burst out with—"My Lord, for God's sake, pass the salt?"

ple, after prayer, used to discuss subjects of religion and sociology as in our modern open forums. But restrictions against public gatherings have stopped this most useful function of the mosque, first during the thirty years of autocracy under Sultan Abdul-Hamid, then later during the war and post-war martial law.

LANDMARKS IN STAMBOUL

The landmarks of interest in Stamboul are too numerous to be described in one article. A description of the bazaars, of the Old Seraglio or of Santa Sofia would require each many pages for giving full justice to their artistic or historic value. Suffice it to say in this article, whose purpose is to give an impressionistic sketch of the city's individuality rather a description of its monuments, that the refugees are not, unfortunately, the only signs of misery left by the war in this part of the world.

Stamboul has many scars of the devastating world fight—and also of the alas! more devastating armistice.

A terrible poverty and the lack of the most essential requirements of life are evident everywher, in every nook and corner of Stamboul; people go begging, private dwellings, public departments and monuments are unattended, unpainted and disintegrating, and the streets are in a pitiful need of repair; but despite its shacks, despite its misery and poverty, despite its beggars, Stamboul is the only part of the city which remains dignified and proud, poor but honest, and behaves like a great and beautiful lady would even if she was in direst want.

Pera, on the contrary, is far from behaving like a lady. Pera, where foreigners, Leventines and Turks elboy each other in narrow and sunless streets that have not even the excuse of being picturesque, has neither decency nor self-respect.

While less in need than Stamboul, she craves for amusement and excitement. This craving and the necessity of having money to satisfy it has thrown her in all the by-ways of a modern Sodom. Gambling houses and cabarets are thriving and, sad to say, are mostly conducted by Russian refugees. The red-light district has completely polluted Pera and has literally poisoned nearly all men, women and children living in this sordid section of the city which, under the guise of being Europeanised, is being prostituted in the most brazen and condemnable way conceivable.

The lure of debauch has so completely vitiated the people that their aggressiveness, especially after dark, has reached proportions which make it virtually impossible for any decent person to walk peacefully alone even through the main street of Pera.

No picture of Constantinople can be complete without at least a mention of its surroundings; the peerless Bosphorus which winds its way for nearly thirty miles between Europe and Asia midst shady hills. Old castles, private Summer residences and modern, comfortable and picturesque hotels such as those in Terapia, with slender "Caiks" or Turkish rowboats bring the people to cool outings in the fresh breezes on the waterway, or bringing—alas, too seldom—the Sultan to prayer at the mosque of Ortakoy.

HISTORIC MONUMENTS

But all these should be seen to be appreciated, as no description can do justice to the Bosphorus, or even to Moda and Kadikoy, in Asia, with its tennis clubs and yachting, or to the "Princess Islands"—four in number—nestling in the Sea of Marmora. It was in the largest of these islands—Prinkipo—that General Townshend, the British commander in Kutel-Amara, was living during the war, after his capitulation, in a beautiful residence by the sea.

With its gorgeous surroundings, its historic monuments and its brilliant past Constantinople—the only city astride two continents—is unquestionably one of the most interesting spots of the world, and will be one of the most pleasant places to live in as soon as Pera will be cleaned up again, as soon as a firm municipal administration will regulate and enforce laws against vagarancy, mendacity, prostitution and profiteering, and as soon as an equitable and definite settlement of the Near Eastern question will allow its population to live once more in peace, without prejudice and national hatred.

At present, however, cut out from its Anatolian resources, forbidden to trade with Russia and sheltering hundreds of thousands of Russian refugees, despite its own misery and want, it remains in breathless suspense, anxiously awaiting the results of the forthcoming and much heralded battle between the Truks and Greeks in Anatolia, pulsating with hopes and feverish with fears, but trusting above all that it may, in the near future, obtain through the decisive defeat of one army or the other the peace and tranquility which neither the Treaty Sevres nor the London Conference have been able to secure to this distracted and unhappy city.

TEXACO CRATER COMPOUND

The Great Gear Lubricant

Texaco Crater Compound is a special lubricant for heavy gears and wire rope. It preserves gears; shields them from dust and dirt, prevents friction, and eliminates machinery noise. Use "Crater" on all heavy gears working under conditions of extreme pressure. It clings to gear teeth when nothing else will, but is fluid enough to allow free lubrication.

As a preservative for wire rope and chains, Texaco Crater Compound is invaluable. It forms a film of lubricant which protects from the action of weather, chemical fumes and contaminated water.

Wire rope and chains coated with "Crater" will last twice as long.

Gears lubricated with it will work noiselessly and more efficiently.

"LOONG MOW"

Lieut. Commander S. Hall, R.N.R. (Captain)

The best time to make this wonderful voyage is during the months of September, October and November. During these months, the "Loong Mow" will maintain a regular eight-day service from Ichang to Chungking and special arrangements will be made for passengers from Shanghai and lower river ports to connect with the "Loong Mow" at Ichang.

The "Loong Mow" is the most luxurious river steamer in the Far East and is fitted with every modern comfort and convenience for passengers. A most excellent service and cuisine is provided.

Urga Under Ungern

(Dalta News Agency)

It is only now, when refugees are arriving in Shanghai from the region of Mongolia held for a time by Baron Ungern, that an adequate idea of Urga's subjugation by a little band of adventurers is possible.

Commanding not more than 150 white men, with a following of Mongolian Chahars or cut throats Ungern completely terrorised the city, using the imposing terminology of "government" to facilitate his robberies and "requisitions."

Among the Baron's entourage of adventurers was a character of a peculiarly vicious type—a former Koltchak officer, and now Ungern's confidant and right-hand man—Colonel Sipylo.

Had the movement developed into a serious attempt to establish a real government it is difficult to forecast the nature of a rule to be set up by this nondescript handful of bandits.

Without the substance of a government of any kind, their rule could be described no more fittingly than to term it a ridiculous imitation of the rule of Ivan Grozny.

BULLETS TO PAY BILLS

Urga's "Chief of the Gendarmerie," the redoubtable Colonel Sipylo, found an easy method of settling with sundry creditors during the days of the pogrom.

It was, however, more in a spirit of vindictiveness rather than for reasons of economy that Sipylo stood his unfortunate creditors against a wall.

Little recked the Colonel for peif, for he had received a third of the loot, and boasted himself "the wealthiest man in the East."

He was obsessed with the notion that Russia's ills were all directly due to the plottings of Jews, and his actions—regardless of the contradictions implied in his own conduct—were the expression of an intense, lived hate.

A Polish Jew, one Shemensky, the proprietor of a store and a restaurant allowed the Colonel to run up a bill amounting to 18 dollars. After a long wait the shopkeeper decided to call on Sipylo for his money.

"You say I owe you 18 dollars."

"Yes, 18 dollars."

"Um, you come tomorrow, and I'll pay you." Many acquaintances cautioned the man not to trouble the Colonel, but for sake of the few dollars involved he presented himself on the following day to the Chief of the gendarmerie.

"You come for money?"

"Yes," replied Shemensky.

"Shoot him."

This was but one instance of the arbitrary playfulness of an officer of the old, true type, who was to deliver Russia from the bondage of the Soviets.

Not only Jews but many Russians as well came in for their share of persecution. Every business concern in Urga either was robbed or paid tribute.

VICTIM OF GREED

The well-known Russian merchant, Noskoff, who was conducting his business through the British firm of Biderman and Co. fell a victim to the insatiable greed of Sipylo.

In order to get possession of Mr. Noskoff's stocks and money, the merchant was simply thrown into prison and his property declared confiscated.

Sipylo had information, however, that a good deal of the merchant's money had been concealed.

Under torture Mr. Noskoff admitted that he had placed in a certain safe $300,000. But Sipylo was not satisfied.

Mrs. Noskoff was informed by Sipylo that upon payment of $200,000 her husband would be let out of jail.

The callous cynicism of this offer lay in the fact that her husband had already died from the effects of the torture.

Mrs. Noskoff, however, unaware of this fact, succeeded in obtaining from Chinese merchants the amount demanded.

It was not until Sipylo had made certain of this money and had made away with the $300,000 in the safe, that Mrs. Noskoff was informed of her husband's death.

BEATEN MOST BRUTALLY

Noskoff had been thrown into a cellar and every day was visited by special functionaries led by a certain Chistiakoff, and duly beaten with ropes, bamboo sticks, and the knout. After a week of this treatment his entire body was covered with indescribable wounds and sores. Neither physicians nor friends were allowed to visit him.

A close friend of Noskoff petitioned the Urga Chamber of Commerce to take some action for Noskoff's release. It was not two weeks before this friend was arrested, put to torture and finally killed.

Another victim, a Russian, is mentioned, a lawyer, Ryabkin by name.

In a Jewish family that was slaughtered by the soldiery in the first days of the pogrom—Nemetski, by name, was a child of eight months. There are several witnesses to testify that this child was choked to death.

The murder of the whole Nemetski family took place before the eyes of a family named Baranovsky, the only Jewish family in Urga that escaped the pogrom—thanks to the office of the Mongolian Trading Company, an American concern.

These stories typify the doings of the Ungern bandits in Urga. There are many other but monotonously similar tales told by recent arrivals from this luckless town.

One Tagieltzeff, an extensive land-owner and the proprietor of a jewelry store, found himself bound, thrown into a cellar, and his store looted.

The wife of this victim, some two weeks later, stopped the car of Sipylo to beg permission to see her husband. The Colonel this day was in an amiable mood, and inviting the woman into his car brought her to the gateway of the city where she saw the body of her husband hanging lifeless from a crudely improvised gallows.
